Every being lives in his own mental world. His joys and sorrows are the creations of his own mind, and are dependent upon the mind for their existence. In the midst of the world, darkened with many sins and sorrows, in which the majority live, there abides another world, lighted up with shining virtues and unpolluted joy, in which the perfect ones live. This world can be found and entered, and the way to it is by self-control and moral excellence.

It is the world of the perfect life, and it rightly belongs to man, who is not complete until crowned with perfection. The perfect life is not the faraway, impossible thing that men who are in darkness imagine it to be; it is supremely possible, and very near and real. Man remains a craving, weeping, sinning, repenting creature just so long as he wills to do so by clinging to those weak conditions. But when he wills to shake off his dark dreams and to rise, he arises and achieves.

This version of the classic book includes a biography about the life and times of James Allen.

James Allen is truly one of the most significant authors on wealth and prosperity, yet so many younger people have never heard of him. His advice is timeless and powerful. Highly recommended.

Practical As a Man Thinketh

By Sila

I tend to like this book more than As a Man Thinketh.

In this book he goes further in depth, as to how to basically apply self-control to your life.

"As a Man thinketh ' is poetic and inspiring but lacks how to depth of understanding.

"As a man thinketh is Gigantic, but above life's storms is profound and faith building.

"The problems of of life are deeply rooted, but they can be fathomed and rooted out"

"Faith is the Grey Dawn before the full and perfect day of knowldege"

"Cease to dwell pessimistically on all the wrongs around you"

A hidden Gem minus the Fanfare of his other blockbuster book
